- (i) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Transaction Documents, upon occurrence of an Event of Default (or, where such Event of Default is capable of being remedied, if such Event of Default has not been remedied or cured to the satisfaction of the Investor within the Cure Period), in each case: (a) the rights of the Existing Shareholders and the Promoters under the Transaction Documents shall automatically (and without any further action from any Party) terminate, provided that the obligations of the Existing Shareholders and Promoters under the Transaction Documents shall continue; and (b) the Investor may, at its sole discretion and option, exercise one or more of the following options (in any order or sequence) (collectively, "EOD Consequence"):

- (ii) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Clause 9, in respect of an Event of Default as set out in Clause 9.1(ii)(a), if any further evidence is discovered after the issue of Default Notice but before the issue of Put Option Exercise Notice or Call Option Exercise Notice by the Investor (as the case may be) or Transfer and sale of Equity Securities held by the Promoters and the Existing Shareholders under the terms of the Securities Pledge Agreement, the Promoters can submit the same for consideration by the Appointee. If before the invocation of any EOD Consequence option by the Investor, the Appointee finds that there is not sufficient evidence to establish the cause of action against the Promoters or the Company for the relevant proceedings, then no Event of Default shall be deemed to have occurred and the Investor shall not be entitled to exercise any EOD Consequence under Clause 9.3(i) in respect of such breach.

- (vii) The Investor shall extend all reasonable cooperation and support that the Promoters, the Existing Shareholders and the Company may request in case any sale, disposal or Transfer of the Project Land is contemplated or proposed post issuance of the Put Option Exercise Notice.
- (viii) If the Investor is unable to consummate the Transfer of its Equity Securities pursuant to Clause 9.4 (Put Option) due to any restrictions under Law, the Promoters and Existing Shareholders agree that the Option Consideration and Default Option Consideration ("Pre-Estimate Losses"), is a genuine pre-estimate of expenses and losses incurred the by Investor in relation to the transfer of its Equity Securities in the Company , and the Promoters and Existing Shareholders hereby agree to pay the Pre-Estimate Losses as liquidated damages and/or indemnity to the Investor and/or its Affiliates, within the time period agreed under this Clause 9.4 (Put Option).
